

Dear Player Family Member/Sponsor,

We need your help! Travel baseball has exploded all over the United States. Virtually all players who move on to college or professional baseball have played some form of travel baseball throughout their high school careers.

Unfortunately, baseball is severely underfunded. Over the last twenty years, the cost of travel baseball has skyrocketed. If it were not for the good-will of sponsors, many players who are now playing at the next level would never have had the opportunity. Thousands of players have missed out on opportunities due to the rising expense. Multi-million dollar facilities are popping up across the country. Colleges and professional stadiums are routinely used to host games, and charge accordingly. Not to mention the cost of professional quality coaching, equipment, uniforms, insurance, the list goes on and on. There are now players who only will play if they can “fill-in”, and play on multiple teams, hoping to avoid expense. This is unfair to the player many times, due to inconsistent coaching. The “show and go” mentality is hurting baseball players, and undermines the development process. There are teams willing to use players up, or even put them in harm's way, if they are not accountable to a team that cares, builds a relationship, works with them, and helps promote them to the next level.

The implications of playing with a quality club with a track record of success can mean the difference between moving on with a baseball scholarship, walking on, or not going to college at all. We constantly harp on the importance of academics, and character. Players who stay involved in extracurricular activities with high standards are more likely to perform well in school. We want the best. We've had hundreds of players move on to play college baseball, including a College World Series MVP, Academic All-Americans, and multiple draft picks. In 2021 we had the statewide player of the year, as well as the highest draft pick from SC HS Baseball. We are looking to support the next wave of stars. With your support we can help facilitate players through training and exposure needed in today's game to give them their best chance at moving to the next level. The impact of your support is more important than you know!

We need your help to continue to support and facilitate the next player's opportunity to develop into the player he can become, and receive the support needed to pursue their dream to play baseball after high school. It is literally a dream come true for players. We don't want families to be burdened, or restricted to access to quality baseball if the player has the makeup, character and skill to move on to college baseball, a step that is life-changing for anyone. In these difficult times even the smallest amount of support can go a long way in easing a potential burden. It is especially appreciated on signing day! Thank you for your support and God bless you!

Sincerely,

Will Nobles
